

Segregation i the Nordic Region - inclusion, young people, and policy

9.30

Registration

10.00

Welcome

Lena Nyberg, Director General, Swedish Agency for Youth and Civil Society (MUCF)

10.15

What is segregation, and when is it perceived to have become a problem?
Nordic theories of residential segregation: from problem definitions to policies

Moa Tunström, Nordregio

Anne Staver, Norwegian Institute for Urban and Regional Research (NIBR)

The Nordic countries' policies and strategies for combatting segregation
Representatives from the relevant ministries of Denmark, Norway, Finland, and Sweden, followed by questions and discussion

Stine Klingenberg Madsen, Danish Ministry of Transport, Building and Housing

Tore Vabø, Norwegian Ministry of Local Government and Modernisation

Jaana Nevalainen, Finnish Ministry of the Environment

Inger Ashing, Swedish delegation against segregation

12.30

Lunch

13.30

Segregation and young people in the urban periphery

– sustainable development as a political concept

Nazem Tahvilzadeh, KTH Royal Institute of Technology in Stockholm

Stay or go? The urban norm and young people in the rest of the country

Lotta Svensson, Hälsingland Training Association (HFUB)

Every other young person feels excluded from society

Ylva Saarinen, Swedish Agency for Youth and Civil Society (MUCF)

Social inclusion of young people in Norway

Esben Olesen, Nordland Research Institute

15.15

Coffee break

15.45

How do you find yourself when others are constantly telling you who you should be?

For one year, Nancy Herz and Sofia Nesrine Srour gathered stories from girls from minority groups who have experienced negative social control. Armed with facts and good humour, they tackle head on the structures and expectations that limit young women's freedom and power over their own lives.

16.20

Concluding remarks

16.30

Mingle

